A Paris journal observes that sooner or later the Comptoir National d'Escompte, as it finds its business expanding will have ernment, having invited a motion for a vote to augment its resources, either by issuing of confidence on a bill dealing with clerical further shares, or by amalgamation with and other societies and being defeated by a another establishment disposing of capital. Mr Frank Walkinshaw, recently returned from the Far East, has brought home a splendid collection of Japanese and Chinese curiosities, and these he exhibited at the Club at Hartley Wintney, in Hampshire, on the 21st inst. Mr Walkinshaw gave a description of the various objects. A tologram from Berlin says: -Major Yssumasa Fukushima, military attaché of the Japanese Legation here, is about to nial franchise including women. BETSY IN THE CITY HALL. The Amateur Dramatic Club have not lost any time in following up the Pantomime with another representation; and the performance of Belsy on Saturday night will unquestionably rank as one of the most enjoyable entertainments given in the comedy line by our look amateurs for many e years past. This resuscitation of comedies must be credited to Mr Chas Holliday, who, by the way, is a veterar on the Hongkong boards and can recall many of the historic successes of our I cal A. D. C. Mr Burnand's sparkling farcical comedy of 'Betsy,' which was first produced at the Criterion in 1879, may be quite properly named, but the title role is by no means Excellency the Governor has appointed Mr the most important character. Besides being too late in the day, our space forbids any detail of the plot, but it is not every piece which unravels itself as intelligibly to one who has not seen it as Betsy does. The adventures of a lively youth who is coddled by his mother long after he is heyond the influence of the apronstrings, and whose father declines to bother about, form the centre of what plot there is. Betsy, the smart servant-maid, makes a mintake in scheming to get the vouthful Adolphus for a husband; and the other by-play, which is of the rattling farcial sort, and permeates the entire Diece. centres around the projected marriage of this 'innocent' boy.
